Teddy Freeman is a cinematographer with bases in Bristol & London, UK but working worldwide. He has experience shooting documentary, short fiction, music videos and commercial projects. His visuals are deeply rooted in narrative and he enjoys being able to tell stories and feed emotion through the images he creates. In both his stills and film work, he gears his look towards a filmic analogue style, and prefers to shoot on film whenever possible. Teddy's goal is to shoot aesthetically challenging, meaningful, and emotional work with an edge of dry humour. He relishes the opportunity to tell stories from underrepresented communities and to challenge conventional depictions of reality. Alongside DOP work, I am an experienced self-shooter with ability to direct, shoot, light, edit and colour-grade projects. I am also a co-founder of the Cornish filmmaking collective Bear Behind You.
